

when the troops and revolutionists, in which more than 100 people were killed and wounded by the troops, who are reported to have fired several volleys into a large crowd of rioters on one of the main thoroughfares of the city. The very latest reports from Reval indicate that the city is still in a turmoil, and that the outbreaks against the authorities are growing wider.

At Rostoff-on-Don, several Hebrews were killed last night in an attack on a synagogue by a band of rioters. The troops had routed the rioters after many shots had been fired.

Telegraphic communication was restored today between St. Petersburg and Moscow and several other cities which had been cut off through the strike troubles.

Flight of Americans.

J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr.; George W. Perkins, and Charles R. Flint, of New York, have left the city. The American millionaires feared injury over the menacing actions of the revolutionists. Mr. Flint sailed for Holentau, Germany, on the steamer Kuzan, on which the British ambassador to Russia, Sir Charles Hardinge, was also a passenger. Mr. Morgan and Mr. Perkins chartered a steamer to carry them to a German port.

Many of the striking railway men returned to work today. The Moscow and St. Petersburg line resumed operations today with all its old employees. The line from Moscow to Kazan and to Reval also began to operate trains today.

Workingmen's Political Party.

At a meeting of the adherents of the radical party late last night resolutions were adopted that all the workingmen of Russia be asked in the name of liberty to join themselves together into a political party, to be composed only of workingmen. The resolutions declared for local parliaments similar to the State Legislatures in the United States, for the abolition of the nobility, the extension of the political franchise to all Russian women, and for universal suffrage.

Many factories in St. Petersburg and nearby places were reopened today. Shops and restaurants in this city which were closed several days ago, owing to the strike disturbances, resumed business this morning. In parts of St. Petersburg better conditions were noticeable today than for over a week past. People generally seem to regard the strike as having put an end to further disaffection.

The czar arrived today at the Winter Palace. The grounds were thronged with dense crowds of people.

Contempt for Sergius.

A crowd proceeded to the former home of the late Grand Duke Sergius, who was assassinated because of his strong support of the autocracy. A red flag was unfurled as the people marched past his house silently and without a word. The crowd then proceeded to the prisons and demanded that all political prisoners should be set free.

Nearly 50,000 people have been stranded in various parts of the empire, owing to the suspension of the railway traffic as a result of the strike. They have been housed in railway buildings, sheds, and especially constructed huts. The question of supplying food for this large number of people has proved a serious problem to the government authorities and has caused great anxiety.

Joyous Workmen

Calling off Strikes

MOSCOW, Russia, Oct. 31.—The strike committee of Moscow, after receiving the manifesto of the czar granting the constitution and proclaiming civil liberty to the people, ordered all the workmen, who have been out on strike, to return to work.

Telegraphic communication between Moscow and St. Petersburg has been partially restored.

Too Good to Be True.

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 31.—The news of the signing of the imperial manifesto was received by a local newspaper here last night, and quickly spread through the city.

There were no demonstrations, however, as the people feared it was not true. The streets were dark and deserted throughout the night and the usual patrol of the Cossacks was maintained.

The newspapers reappeared today, but the strike continues, despite the manifesto of the czar. The revolutionists demand amnesty for all political prisoners before ceasing their agitation. Large forces of infantry and cavalry are patrolling the streets to prevent disorders.

Chaos reigns, and the authorities are wholly unprepared. They do not know what attitude to adopt. They have telegraphed to St. Petersburg for instructions.

Odessa Happy.

ODESSA, Russia, Oct. 31.—It was not until the early hours of the morning that the first intimation that the czar had yielded to the demands of the people and had granted the much desired constitution reached here. It was too late for the good news to become generally known, and it is only now that all the people have been informed.

The news was received with demonstrations of wild enthusiasm. The streets now are blocked with immense crowds of wildly cheering people, who are almost riotous with joy. In their delirium all the national and international news is being received with enthusiasm on the best of terms. Strangers embrace strangers in their happiness, glad to have the opportunity to exchange congratulations.

Holiday Aspect Prevails.

A holiday aspect prevails. Work has been completely suspended, and it is impossible to get anyone to think of returning to business just at present. Many soldiers and policemen are joining in the demonstrations.

It is expected that the strike will come to an end immediately, and that as soon as the people recover from the delirium of joy they will return to work.

Spencer Eddy's Version of Ukase

Official notification of the establishment of a constitutional form of government in Russia was communicated to the State Department last night by Spencer Eddy, the United States charge d'affaires at St. Petersburg.

Mr. Eddy's version of the ukase of the czar does not differ materially from that conveyed in the press dispatches. His message announced that a constitution would be proclaimed at midnight last night, authorizing the establishment of a full parliamentary government, the Emperor reserving the right to veto.

Among the constitutional rights granted are freedom of speech, press, and person, the inviolability of domicile and the right of habeas corpus. The right to vote is extended to all classes.

The Russian embassy has received no advice from the home government relative to the disorders in Russia. Because of this, the officials there refuse to discuss the situation, pleading ignorance of the exact state of affairs.

Although the foreign office of St. Petersburg has prepared to send official notifications to the Russian representatives abroad on the subject of the decree of the czar, which, in granting real legislation and in extending suffrage and civil liberty, will forever end the rule of absolutism, no word has yet been received by the Russian embassy here.

Major Sylvester today received a dispatch from Central Office Detectors Frank Hehan and Thomas McNamee, in which they stated that Howard and Mary Thomas, colored servants, wanted in Washington for stealing $500 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Charles B. Pearson, 1217 Massachusetts avenue northwest, were arrested in Philadelphia about 1 o'clock this morning.

EXECUTION OF VARTANIAN HAS BEEN POSTPONED

Minister Leishmann, at Constantinople, today cabled the State Department that the execution of the Armenian, Vartanian, has been postponed.

Vartanian was sentenced to death for having murdered an Armenian merchant. He claimed American naturalization, and appealed to the American legation. Minister Leishmann insisted that the man, who admitted the killing, should be tried by the American consular court, under the treaty between this country and Turkey.

Reforms Promised Must Be Far Reaching

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 31.—The delirious rejoicing of last night and early morning over the manifesto of the czar is being followed today by the adoption by the people of a more critical attitude toward the new reforms.

The opinion is becoming general that the reforms promised must be widely extended or Russia will continue under autocratic rule, although with the popular assembly substituted for the bureaucracy. The first examination of the manifesto, in which the constitution is proclaimed, does not reveal any substantial gain of civil liberty over previous promises which have not been kept except the extension of the franchise and the establishment of a cohesive cabinet.

Something Missing.

There is nothing in the manifesto on the two vital principles of a constitutional government having entire control of the finances, through the popular assembly and the exclusive responsibility of the cabinet to the assembly.

Unless the czar's advisers go far beyond the wording of the manifesto in working out the details of the new form of government, the agitations which have continued for so long, culminating in the present gigantic strike, will be resumed.

The leaders of the radical party will not support the manifesto. They intend to begin immediately the organization of the workingmen into a party which will demand:

"First. The abolition of the nobility.

"Second. Universal suffrage, including the extension of the franchise to women.

"Third. Complete local autonomy with local parliaments similar to the various State legislatures of America, for Finland, Poland, and the Caucasus.

THE SAKS CUSHION SHOE

An Ideal Dress or Walking Shoe for Winter Wear

A new feature in modern shoe-making is successfully introduced in the Saks Cushion Shoe—a shoe that affords absolute foot-comfort and complete protection against cold and dampness without sacrificing style. It is something different and decidedly superior in the way of footwear and deserves the attention of every man.

It derives its name from the Cushion sole which is built in the shoe in the following manner—oak outer sole and oak inner sole with sheet cork between, then the lambs wool cushion with soft calf covering, on which the foot rests. This sole is soft and pliable conforming accurately to the shape of the foot. It is a non-conductor of heat and cold, thus maintaining an even temperature. It acts as a cushion when walking and prevents all jar.

The Saks Cushion Sole Shoes are shown in all leathers and all Patent colt, patent kid, vici and velvet kid, French calf and Cordovan calf. Heavy and light soles. They can be repaired the same as any other shoes. Glad to have you call and see the Saks Cushion Shoe. Priced at...

Inaugural Day Confab Postponed Three Weeks

Southern Governors Will Be at Another Meeting on Date First Set—Change Brings Conference Nearer Congress.

The national committee on the proposed change of inauguration day will not meet on November 8, as intended, but will do so here November 28.

This announcement was made by Commissioner Macfarland, chairman of the committee, this morning. The reason for the change is the meeting of Southern governors in Chattanooga, November 8. As the majority of the governors from the South have accepted service on the committee, a new date was selected convenient for them.

Commissioner Macfarland was glad to make the change, because it brings the meeting nearer the convening of Congress.

The committee will pass upon two questions: What new date should be recommended for inauguration day, and whether any recommendation should be made for a change of the time of the meeting of Congress. The majority of the members of the committee heard from have said they prefer the last Thursday in April, the day set in Senator Hoar's resolution, which twice passed the Senate, and not to make any recommendation about Congress assembling.

Thus far, forty-three governors of States and Territories have accepted service on the committee, with fifteen residents of the District of Columbia. Those governors who cannot attend the meeting here will send their views in writing.

PRESIDENT REAPPOINTS INSPECTOR BRAUN

President Roosevelt has reappointed Marcus Braun, of New York, an inspector in the Immigration Bureau, Department of Commerce and Labor.

Mr. Braun was dismissed from that service some time ago on charges growing out of a quarrel he had with the police officials of Budapest, Austria-Hungary, while he was on a tour inspecting the methods of certain steamship companies. These companies, it was alleged, were operating a scheme to bring certain objectionable foreigners into the country and some content that Inspector Braun's discovery of this fact aggravated the assault made upon him by the Austria-Hungary police at that time.

ALEXANDRIA NOTES.

ALEXANDRIA, Oct. 31.—The trial of Conductor Mason Downs, of the Washington, Alexandria and Mt. Vernon Railway Company, charged with assaulting a boy, Albert Harrison, was held this morning. Two boys, named Kersey and Schlichting, testified that a conductor kicked Harrison in the mouth while he was on the step of the rear platform of the car. They stated that he fell off and hit his head.

Both of the witnesses testified that they had paid no fare, having only jumped on the car intending to ride half a square. They persisted, however, that they would have paid a fare if the conductor had asked them for it.

Downs, in his own behalf, testified that he had no trouble with any boys on the train and did not remember ever seeing the Harrison boy or the witnesses. Justice Pelton dismissed Downs and had Schlichting and Kersey arrested for jumping on the cars. He delivered a lecture to the boys and then dismissed them.
